Baxter fights back in federal court

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Former Jubilee Casino chief George Baxter took off the legal gloves last week with a series of federal court motions responding to money laundering charges.

In papers filed recently in U.S. District Court in New Orleans, the 67-year-old Baxter asks to have the case dismissed based on "outrageous" government conduct, including "unwarranted coercion."

He claims the government

"engineered and directed the criminal enterprise from start to finish, and essentially manufactured a new crime to obtain (Baxter's) involvement in order to obtain a conviction."

Baxter will show in court that he "was not an active participant in any criminal activity prior to the outrageous governmental contact by the agents which gave rise to this charge," the defense states in a newly filed document.

The defense of "outrageous governmental conduct" is based on the notion that the Constitution's due process clause limits "how far the government may go in detecting crime, regardless of the character or the target," Baxter's defense argues.

A separate motion to dismiss the case is based on a charge of prosecutorial misconduct: Baxter contends the prosecution has "disseminated improper material to the public in reference to this cause."

Other documents filed in the case include a list of potential defense witnesses, a motion to have the case tried in Mississippi rather than Louisiana, and requests for reams of information concerning the prosecution's case.

Charges against Baxter were laid out in a federal "bill of information" filed by federal prosecutors April 4. He waived formal indictment proceedings, and pleaded not guilty to the allegations.

His trial has been set for June 26 in New Orleans, and Baxter remains free on $50,000 bond pending the trial.

The government alleges that Baxter, from January 1993 through November 1994, took a total of $200,000 from an undercover agent who contended the money came from illegal sales of cocaine. Baxter is charged with laundering the money through a Jubilee Casino bank account in Biloxi.

Federal officials have said there is no evidence that Jubilee Casino or its parent corporation, Alpha Hospitality Corp., were involved in the alleged crime.

Baxter has been unavailable for comment on the allegations -- he was granted court permission to return to Costa Rica pending the trial. Baxter is said to be involved in establishing several new casinos in the Central American country.

But in his court filings, Baxter makes it clear he is ready to fight the allegations. -- and he wants to do so in Mississippi rather than Louisiana. Baxter contends that move is logical, for the convenience of the parties involved, because the evidence and proof are "essentially" in the Southern District of Mississippi, and because "most of the alleged acts occurred" in Mississippi.

(U.S. Customs officials claim the case is based on an offense in "St. Tammany," a Louisiana parish which encompasses Slidell).

Among the recent filings, Baxter's defense offers a list of potential witnesses who may be called during the trial. He also asks for permission to take depositions from four people, and permission to interview all prosecution witnesses within the custody of the government, or who are "protected" by the government.

His requests for information from the government are extensive: ranging from diagrams and telephone toll records to applications for wire taps, documents which indicate the purchase, sale or occupancy or ownership of any vehicle, residence or property which is relevant to the case, and all photographs or videos taken of Baxter on or before his arrest.

The defense also is seeking access to all reports, documentation, memoranda and books "reflecting the corporation which was used by the Customs Service in this operation and, in particular, the name, address, officers and a description of its business."

Government answers claims

BY RICHARD MEEK

Assistant U.S. Attorney General Peter Strasser has gone on the offensive to respond to George Baxter's legal maneuvers last week in U.S. District Court in New Orleans.

Baxter's defense counsel filed a series of motions in federal court seeking to throw out money-laundering charges filed against the former chief of the Jubilee Casino. The motions involved a grocery list of reasons for the case to be dismissed, including "outrageous government" conduct.

Strasser answered with two multi-tenet motions. In response to the defense motion the case be dismissed for "prosecutorial misconduct," Strasser, in his motion, said "with all due respect to defense counsel, his claim has no basis in law or fact."

50 years of service

Mrs. Ethel Favre, left, was recently presented a plaque recognizing her 50 years of service to Mississippi State University by Dr. Donald W. Zacharia, MSU president. Dr. Hirman D. Palmertree, director of the Cooperative Extension Service at Mississippi State is in the background. Mrs. Favre has been with Extension Service in Hancock County since June, 1945. (MSU photo).

MSU honors Favre's 50 years of service

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

A 17-year-old fresh-out-of-high school, red-headed girl runs homes and says, "Mother and Dad, guess what? I have a temporary position for three months."

This was June, 1945, and jobs were few and far between for girl high school graduates in Bay St. Louis.

Yet, this 17-year-old turned that three-month temporary job into one-half of a century of employment with the same agency.

Now, 50 years later, Mrs. Ethel Ladner Favre plans on retiring from the Mississippi Extension Service as a secretary.

Miss Ethel, (as she is known by almost all) says she was recommended for the job by Professor S.J. Ingram, superintendent of Bay High School.

Several months ago when Miss Ethel informed Mississippi State officials of her planned retirement, (Extension Service personnel are considered off-campus employees), they were baffled trying to figure what her retirement pay would be, as they had never had anyone with so long of service.

They then turned the matter over to the State Retirement System, who too had problems. They in turn turned it over to an Actuary Firm in New York. The matter is still unresolved.

What all this means is that she could lose some substantial retirement benefits for working too long.

During her tenure as secretary, she has worked for 31 county agents, home economists and 4-H youth agents.

Her first boss was County Agent Charlie Stone, who was later named district agent for the Jackson district.

The first home economist boss was Eleanor Davis (Smith), of Wiggins, who happened to be a sister of Mrs. Dave McDonald of Bay St. Louis.

"In 1945 Hancock County had a total of 103 dairy farms, (at present there are 7), and over 500 farmers signed up. I have seen agriculture at its peak and now at its lowest in

Woman in need of Section 8 housing in Bay

BY RICHARD MEEK

Pat Hartshorn knows what it's like to be down on her luck.

The single mother of two is physically unable to work. Her summer will be occupied with operations on both wrists. She has not heard from her oldest daughter since August, when her son-in-law took Hartshorn's daughter and grandchild and moved to parts unknown.

Hartshorn's son is living with family friends. Her furniture is in storage. And perhaps in what is the worst insult, she is unable to find suitable housing.

Harshorn, 51, has lived a gypsy-like existence since separating from her husband last fall. At various times, she has lived with friends, but for whatever reason, she said those friends asked her to leave, one in the middle of the night. Hartshorn was just thankful her daughter was visiting her father in New Orleans so she, too, did not have to face the indignation of being booted out with nowhere to go.

Waveland residents angry over proposed parking

BY RICHARD MEEK

A decision by the Waveland Board of Aldermen to endorse a County Board of Supervisor proposal to build a parking lot and comfort station on the beach between Coleman Avenue and Terrace Lane was met with anger and claims of being "steamrolled" by nearby neighbors.

On Wednesday, the board, by a 3-1 margin, passed a resolution endorsing the county plan to construct a 69-space parking lot and comfort station on the beach. A similar plan is underway in Bay St. Louis.

Opposition from a group of citizens had delayed the Waveland project. But at Wednesday's meeting, Waveland Mayor John Mason said the Board of Supervisors informed him the city had until June 5 to pass a resolution or run the risk of losing the money for the county-funded project. The approximate cost of the project is $300,000, Mason said.

"This is a flat-out grant from the county," Mason said. "It does not cost the city any money, and the county maintains the upkeep."

The lone board dissenter was Alderman Jay Fleuriet. Fleuriet had scheduled a meeting for May 22 at City Hall Annex to discuss alternative proposals. He was in favor of tabling the vote until after the meeting.

After the resolution passed, Fleuriet made a motion to table the previous resolution. But that died for lack of a second. "This is a gift from the county, and we are out of time," Alderman Tommy Longo said. "We are working on their time span."

The vote drew immediate reaction from opponents. "We got steamrolled," Jim Hampton said. "It was stuffed down our throats."

Hampton said the parking lot will bring in "young people with drugs, pollution, alcohol, loud noises and boom boxes."

Boil water to use

Mississippi Department of Health Water Supply officials are continuing to remind Jourdan River Shores residents to boil their water before using it for consumption.

Until further notice, residents remain under the boil-water notice.

Customers are urged to boil their water vigorously for one minute before using it for consumption.

Fire victims ask for help

The family of Melissa Simolke is petitioning the community for help after a devastating fire has left her, her husband, and two sons temporarily homeless.

The Simolke residence on Huron Street in Waveland recently burned, destroying the family's belongings. Simolke said they have insurance but the adjusters have said it would take at least a month before a settlement would be reached. Even after the claim is settled, however, she said the family would not be left with much money.

In the interim, Simolke said the family is living in relatives' homes. They are in need of clothes, money and furniture.

She said anyone interested in helping should call 467-2317 or 467-3878.

Saints fan

Patrick Donohoe, like football fans of all ages, had a chance to get Carl Smith's autograph and meet other members of the New Orleans Saints Thursday in Waveland. The Saints caravan rolled into town with a breakfast meeting hosted by the Kiwanis Club of Hancock County at the Waveland Resort Inn. Saints vice president of marketing Greg Suit, offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach Carl Smith, linebacker coach Jim Haslett, tight end Irv Smith and nose tackle Jim Hanna shared their views on the 1995 season, showed a highlights film of last season, answered questions, handed out door prizes and signed autographs. All seemed to agree, 1995 should be the Saints best year ever. (Photo by Randy Ponder)

Gulf Coast women PRSSA officers

Three Mississippi Gulf Coast women will serve as officers of the Public Relations Society of America at the University of Southern Mississippi. Crystal Dingli of Gulfport, Jessica Johnson Lewis of Waveland and Christy Sutherland of Pascagoula each will serve a one-year term as officers.

Lewis, 22, a senior speech communication and public relations major, will serve as co-editor of the society's newsletter. She is the daughter of Elaine Ladner of Waveland. PRSSA is a public relations pre-professional organization. Dr. Barbara Shoemaker, assistant professor of journalism, serves as faculty adviser.

Ending city service

Bay St. Louis city officials said farewell to two long-time workers last week, with a reception and proclamations of appreciation. Receiving the honors were retirees Lucien Kidd, left, and Andrew Lizana. Kidd served as a city commissioner for four years, and has worked for the city's utility department for the past 10 years. Lizana retired from the position of fire chief, after 23 years with the city. Mayor Eddie Favre, right, presented both men with proclamations of appreciation. (Echo staff photo by Mary G. Seiley) the county's modern history," Mrs. Favre said.

Mrs. Favre continued, "As times have changed in our community, so has the focus of the Extension Service. When I first started with the agency it was completely dedicated to the rural areas, and now we cover all the county."

Miss Ethel recalls how after the 1947 hurricane and also Hurricane Camille in 1969, the office was closed, as she was dispatched to school cafeterias to help serve food to workers. The county agents went from farm to farm to assist farmers with their many needs.

Miss Ethel, even though a secretary, has been the stabilizing force of the county staff. The county professional staff had the highest turnover of any staff in the southeast district.

In 1987, District Agent Lex C. Mason, in a recommendation for Mrs. Favre for the Doris and Louis Wise Support Staff Award stated, "...During the vacancies of county agents, home economists, and 4-H youth agents, Mrs. Favre has held the programs together until the new agent was appointed. She has conducted educational meetings, answered technical questions from clients, completed agent reports and performed many other duties normally performed by agents.

"In my 23 years in the district office, I have never heard her complain one time about her responsibilities, assigned or assumed. She truly possesses and displays the highest professional characteristic.

"Her broad knowledge of clients in the county has contributed significantly to the success of the agents. Her warm, friendly, professional personality has won many friends for herself and Extension.

"Mrs. Favre has brought much dignity and a high degree of professionalism to her secretarial position. These characteristics are recognized by Extension employees, clientele and support groups."

The first ever Wise Support Staff Award to recognize the outstanding 1987 Clerical and Secretarial Employee in the Division of Agriculture, Forestry and Veterinary Medicine went to Miss Ethel. She competed against some 400 secretaries across the state of Mississippi.

Mississippi State recognized Miss Ethel with another honor in 1988 when she received the Epsilon Sigma Phi Outstand- ing Secretary award for the year.

County Agent Drew Bates, who has been in Hancock County for two years said, "Miss Ethel sure made it easy in my getting established here with her knowledge and assistance. She also helped me in meeting the people in the county and helped my finding my way around the area."

"She is an excellent person to work with and very, very professional," Bates added.

In 1949 she married the late Nelius Favre Sr., and they raised three sons, Nelius Favre Jr., Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre and Michael Favre, who all still live in Bay St. Louis. Miss Ethel has five grandchildren.

Mrs. Favre's husband had to retire early from his position with the Daily Herald because of health problems, and in addition to caring for her three sons, she also assisted her husband for many years.

Miss Ethel has worked closely with the Hancock County Cattlemen's Association since its formation. Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church fairs in the barbecue booths with her sons, the Crab Festival, OLA Food Festival and many other community endeavors.

"It has been a privilege and a tremendous honor to serve the people of my native Hancock County over the years. Extension gave me an opportunity of meeting and working with so many fine people," Mrs. Favre said.

Mrs. Favre continued, "My word to our youth today is stay in school, always do your best, no matter what you are doing, because it will always pay dividends. Remember, life is a continuous education."

Miss Ethel plans to retire in the near future, just when, who knows!

By the way, Mrs. Favre has accumulated two years leave in addition to her 50 years of service.

ernment counsel to the press was strictly limited to what was a matter of public record. Had counsel done any investigation of this outrageous claim, he would have learned from the press that government counsel's statements were not verbatim quotes, and were rearranged and not kept in any particular context."

In answering defense's petition to dismiss for misconduct by government agents, Strasser's motion claims "because (Baxter) does not make any specific allegations of misconduct, it is difficult for the government to answer this claim."

The government cited several cases to support its argument. In the cases in question, the Fifth Circuit held that due process violations will only be found in the rarest and most outrageous circumstances. Even where the government initiates the crime, the Court added, a defendant cannot avail himself of this defense when he has been an active participant in the charged criminal activity.

The Court also rejected the notion the government must "have a pre-existing basis for suspecting criminal activity before targeting an individual. The Court held that the entrapment instruction serves as an effective bar to the conviction of a non-predisposed individual."

The motion said the Court ruled that "enthusiasm" by the defendant will "evidence predisposition," even though the government may have initiated the initial scheme.

Strasser's motion alleged that Baxter was "ready, willing, able and did launder purported drug money."

Strasser also "strenuously" objected to Baxter's request for change of venue.

As for defense counsel's motion for Bill of Particulars, Strasser claimed defense counsel was provided with the undercover tape recordings, which allegedly proves Baxter accepting money for laundering purposes. Strasser added the "materials" requested in the defense motion "are not discoverable."

He also charged a Bill of Particulars is not "an investigative vehicle for the defense."

As for the defense's motion for Discovery and Inspection, Strasser said "at no time has defense counsel" discussed discovery with him.

Strasser said all counsel has to do is call Strasser, and he will comply, with, "of course, reciprocal discovery."

Baxter's trial has been scheduled for June 26 in New Orleans. He is free on $50,000 bond.

Kiwanis support Hope Haven

The Kiwanis Club of Hancock County announces its wholehearted support in making "Hope Haven of Hancock County" a reality.

The Kiwanis Club has agreed to provide financial and manpower support through involvement and fund-raising efforts. The project falls under the Kiwanis International theme of "Young Children, Priority One."

This theme is a commitment of clubs and their members to become organized advocates for the young child.

Hope Haven became the focus of the club's attention during a recent survey to determine areas of need in the community. It was discovered the main objective of their organization is to provide shelter and needed care for abused and neglected children.

Kiwanis recognizes the intense need of all community organizations, whose joint efforts and collaboration will be necessary to establish the goals of Hope Haven.

For information regarding Hope Haven, please call 467-9747.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Don't forget St. Clare's Seafood Festival continues today from noon until 9 p.m.

I can smell the aroma of boiling and frying seafood. Just to dig into a good, fresh, boiled, fat crab or succulent crawfish has my mouth watering as I write this column just before lunch Friday.

There are a lot of very good seafood specialties in addition to po-boys, hot dogs, hamburgers, and barbecued chicken, available.

The festival is located on the grounds of St. Clare Catholic Church, Beach Boulevard, Waveland.

It was great Friday to see Hancock High seniors as a group registering to vote in the Circuit Clerk's office. It is very important for all persons eligible to register, and be sure to vote in all elections.

This is a very good start for our seniors, who will be the community leaders of tomorrow.

As most of you know, the primary elections will be held in August and the general election in November of this year.

Leaders for all elected positions in the county and state will be elected by the time the general election is completed.

This means the leaders for our state and county will be elected by the qualified electors.

In order to be a qualified elector one must be registered to vote. Registration normally is a one-time affair.

Persons can register at the Circuit Clerk's office of the Hancock County Courthouse or at their respective city hall.

There are also mail-in registrations, and for further information on those, call the Circuit Clerk's office at 467-5265.

I hope to see you on election day.

I have seen a lot of smiling faces of seniors during two awards ceremonies I attended this past week.

Graduating from high school is really only the beginning of one's education.

It is hoped that every senior will do his or her best to attend college.

One cannot receive enough education today with our society so advanced.

Education does not stop either when one leaves college, as education continues throughout one's life.

I do wish to congratulate each and every graduate for staying in school.

I wish all students the best in the coming years.

Jackson company in restoration millwork

After the Cabildo in New Orleans was heavily damaged by fire in 1988, Louisiana authorities doing the restoration called upon the Jackson firm, Scanlon-Taylor to reproduce or restore the fine millwork in the 200-year-old building.

It wasn't by accident that Scanlon-Taylor got the job to do the millwork in putting back what was perhaps the most historic building in this part of America. The Cabildo was the site in 1803 for the signing of the Louisiana Purchase and transfer of 828,000 square miles of French territory to a young United States.

Of course what we know today is that the U.S. got for $15 million the best real estate deal it ever made, the land which now encompasses all or parts of 15 states.

Why Jackson's Scanlon-Taylor, established in 1933, was the first choice of the restorers of the Cabildo was because of the reputation of this little gem of a millwork company in doing much of the fine woodwork for new or historic buildings in New Orleans' French Quarter since the 1960s.

The average citizen in Jackson doesn't even know where Scanlon-Taylor's operation is located or has any idea that for years it has been one of the few master craftsman architectural millwork houses in the country. All one sees driving past the Scanlon-Taylor shop on N. West St. and Mitchell St. is a corrugated metal building, a gravel parking lot with several dozen automobiles, and a loading dock. You have to look closely to even see a small sign with the company name facing the parking lot.

However, the fascinating work being done at Scanlon-Taylor is only part of a rather remarkable Mississippi industrial story. More intriguing, perhaps, is the fact that the operation of Scanlon-Taylor is being run by a 45-year-old woman, Frances Scanlon Fraley.

She is the daughter of M. J. (Joe) Scanlon of Jackson, who at age 18 took over operation of the company from his father, William J. Scanlon in 1936, only three years after the latter had launched the business with R. E. Taylor at the beginning of the Great Depression.

It was a good team with Scanlon running the production end and Taylor doing the selling. The Taylor presence in the business continued right on up until 1990 when Robert Taylor Jr. sold his interest in the company to Fran Fraley.

Except for four years in the Army in World War II, Joe Scanlon remained the operating partner of the company until 1988, when Fran, already a veteran of 15 years in the business took over.

Fran did not intend to get into the millwork business until she graduated from LSU in 1973 (in landscape architecture) but as she says, by "default" she became the one to join her dad and carry on the family business when her older brother Joe opted to go into law.

She learned the business from the ground up, and when her dad chose in 1988 to step out, she was ready to step in. Nationwide, Fran today may well be the only woman in charge of an architectural millwork company, at least to her knowledge in the Architectural Millwork Institute.

When the Cabildo restoration came along after the 1988 fire, Fran admits Scanlon-Taylor wanted the job "very badly" but had to buck the inevitable sea of Louisiana politics to finally get it with the highly regarded construction company, Grimaldi of New Orleans. Scanlon-Taylor had done millwork in the 1968 renovation of the Cabildo, but the post-fire restoration was a lot bigger job.

In the Scanlon-Taylor shop the 18-foot by 8-foot cupola that sits atop the Cabildo was painstakingly built by company craftsmen (laminated with Spanish cedar in four thin layers over 16 mahogany ribs) and more than two dozen huge dormers that encased the Cabildo's landmark windows were either precisely reproduced or restored exactly as the building was erected under the Spanish in 1788.

Numerous doors and other millwork items for the historic old building were redone or reproduced, and all of it was delivered two years ago in time to complete the Cabildo restoration later in 1993. Scanlon-Taylor millwork had gone into such French Quarter hotels as the Royal Orleans, the Royal Sonesta, and a dozen other landmark hostilities (any time you register at the Royal Sonesta, note the magnificent registration desk) as well as the old State Capitol in Baton Rouge, both the old and "new" State Capitols in Jackson, and numbers of other historic building in the New Orleans area.

Fran is a no-nonsense businesswoman who can be found at work on a Saturday or poring over architects' drawings late at night. Her social life is virtually nonexistent except for occasionally watching her son play Little League. Her day starts usually with 6:20 a.m. Mass at St. Richard Catholic Church, and her main recreation is reading mysteries (Ann Rice in particular, and John Grisham). But she does have a strong penchant for New Orleans food, and goes to restaurants every time there is a good excuse for a business trip to the Big Easy.

Scanlon-Taylor is a unique little industry that is more like one large family of 47 employees (it hit 65 at its peak in the '70s) in which sons of millwork craftsmen often join their fathers in the shop. Half of the workers are black and half are white.

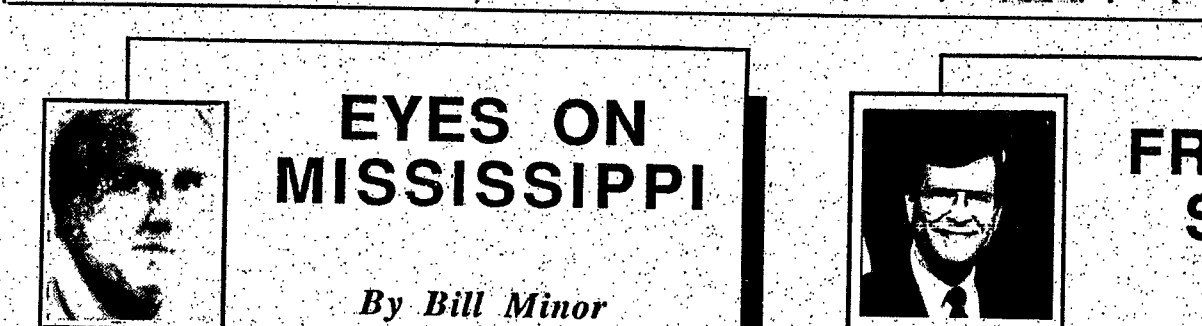

"Nobody can be stupid and work here. These are people who could be doctors and lawyers if they had had the opportunity," Fran says proudly.

What about being a woman in a business dominated by males? "I've fought male egos all along," she confides. "If you could get egos out of the way, things would flow a lot smoother."

A lot of food

The letter carriers from the Bay St. Louis Post Office collected food items for the Hancock County Food Pantry last Saturday. The carriers collected some 13,000 plus pounds of food, which went to the Food Pantry and also to the Hancock County Emergency Relief. It was the largest food drive ever in Hancock County. Appreciation goes to every resident who placed out food for the letter carriers to collect. The letter carriers of Hancock County need to be congratulated on a job well done. FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Transportation funds must be spent

As transportation trust funds sit unused, Mississippians and other Americans sit in traffic on two-lane, beat up roads, or circling airports that need improvements. This does not make fiscal sense, and it does not make infrastructure sense.

That is why Senator Max Baucus of Montana and I have introduced a bill to restore the integrity to America's transportation trust funds. Our bill requires that highway, airport and airway, inland waterway, and harbor maintenance trust funds be spent to complete the long overdue maintenance and expansion of America's infrastructure.

Every day, $80 million pour into these trusts mainly through gasoline and airline ticket taxes, while $360 billion in documented infrastructure needs are neglected. This has permitted a $32 billion cash balance to build up in these trusts, a balance which does not benefit those Americans who need their transportation infrastructure repaired or upgraded. That balance only helps the federal budgeteers who use these funds to mask the size of the deficit.

Our legislative proposal offers a simple and direct solution to this situation -- take these transportation trust funds off budget. Each of the four trust funds imposes a specific excise tax or user fee on transportation users. Congress only imposed these taxes upon the assurance that collected funds would be spent for infrastructure improvements. The existence of sizeable balances in these funds represents a breaking of the government's contract with taxpayers.

The basic maintenance of our current infrastructure system will require spending $212 billion for highways, $78 billion for bridges, $18 billion for transit, $50 billion for airports, and $3 billion for inland waterways.

In 1993, poor roads cost American motorists more than $19 billion in wasted fuel, added tire wear, and extra vehicle repairs: an average of $112 per motorist. While airport congestion is increasing, the airport improvement grant program was cut by nearly a third over the past several years.

We all understand that infrastructure investments are critical to promoting productivity-led economic growth in this country. The first thing any manufacturer seeking a new plant site looks for is the condition of the roads, railroads, shipping lanes, and airports that will be so vital to that business' future. Mississippi's economic growth today is proportionate to our own infrastructure rebuilding program of the last few years.

According to the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, if, since 1970, the U.S. had maintained the 1950s and 1960s share of Gross National Product for core infrastructure, productivity growth for the country would have been 50 percent higher. The average profit rate would have been 22 percent higher, and the rate of private investment would have increased by 19 percent.

In this global, trading economy, our competitors are funding physical infrastructure to help their economies and export. Japan, for example, invested more than five times what the U.S. spent on public infrastructure between 1973 and 1985.

We need to repair and upgrade America's infrastructure because it is essential for a healthy and growing economy. And, when their transportation funds are spent, the American traveling public will get what they have paid for: better roads and airports.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Cooperation helps achieve education goals

The Wall Street Journal reports that employers have a dismal view of the way schools and universities prepare people for the workplace.

The report cites a survey of 3,347 companies conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau of the U.S. Education Department. The survey found that managers estimate that one of every five U.S. employees isn't proficient in the job.

It found that companies rank teacher recommendations at the bottom of 11 criteria used for hiring, and students' grades rank ninth on that list.

"There is a disconnection between the U.S. school system and employers," says Peter Cappelli, a professor of management at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business and co-director of the National Center on the Educational Quality of the Workforce. So how can the connection be established?

A good start would be for education-interest groups to work more closely with the business community to turn out proficient students.

Those groups should use research projects — such as the Mississippi Economic Council's recent STAR Teacher survey — for their information value, even when such studies don't say exactly what educators want to hear.

Yes, educators are in the business of educating, and they should know how to do that best. But business leaders best know what they need from educators — an effective and productive workforce.

With everyone working together, such goals can be achieved.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

Hallelujah, it's Sunday morning! Grab ya' a piece of that left-over pizza, clear yourself a little spot off of the table and let's have a little chat.

Well Dudes and Dudettes of Hancock County and the surrounding area, the time is fast approaching. Having dutifully survived one disaster, it's time to prepare yourselves for the next.

That's right, in just three short weeks the Gruesome Two-some (my kids) will once again descend upon Camp Dad for another summer of total, out-of-control chaos.

They'll arrive, as always, with a 6,000-pound suitcase (mostly filled with toys and sharp objects) and enough raw energy to send a rocket to the Moon. I'm sure they've been rehearsing a few new tricks to try on their ol' Dad.

The first major obstacle will be the flight itself. After much consideration I have decided to let them fly again. They will be flying in via Southwest Airlines. I would have preferred TWA, but my son Jimmie has been banned from that airline for life.

It seems the last time he flew TWA he got a bit bored and began using his peanuts as projectiles, using the stewardesses and the rest of the passengers as targets. I knew there was a tiny problem when the stewardess brought him off the plane hog-tied and gagged.

I've instructed him this year to wear dark sunglasses, a fake beard and a name tag that says John Doe. I'm also taking out an ad in the San Antonio newspaper that reads:

WANTED: BIG RUSSIAN LADY WEARING RED CHECKERED APRON AND CARRYING LARGE CAST IRON FRYING PAN TO ESCORT CHILDREN FROM SAN ANTONIO TO NEW ORLEANS.

I've been accused of being a tad bit lenient with them in the past. But this year I've been preparing myself and plan to take control of the situation.

No longer will my son be able to have ice cream with Hershey chocolate for breakfast, and bologna sandwiches for lunch and supper every day.

This summer I'm serving up mushy peas and liver, and that's for breakfast. I haven't decided what lunch and dinner will be yet, but it will include lots of spinach and other smelly vegetables. I, on the other hand, will continue to have bologna sandwiches and ice cream.

In addition, my son will no longer be able to refer to his sister as an ugly, stupid, four-eyed, tattle-tale brat. And my daughter will not be able to address her brother as an ignorant cry baby, spoiled rotten, stupid idiot. This year they're going to refer to each other as Miss English and Mister Jim.

Oh well folks, you've been duly warned. Hide your small animals, protect your small children and RUN FOR COVER, 'cause here they come.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to my partner, Eileen, who subjected herself to 18 holes of golf with me in last week's annual Wheel of Misfortune Tournament at Diamond-head. Peace.

Kindergarten registration rescheduled

The Hancock County School District will hold Kindergarten open house and registration for the 1995-96 school year Tuesday, May 23, between 8:30 and 2:30 p.m.

Registration will be held in the Kindergarten classrooms of C.B. Murphy Elementary, Gulfview Elementary and Hancock North Central Elementary.

The parent or legal guardian should register his/her child at the school in the area in which he/she resides. Parents who do not know which school their child will attend may call the superintendent's office at 467-4466.

The following requirements must be met:

The child must be 5 years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1995; must have a certified copy of a birth certificate; must have a Mississippi Certificate of Compliance from the local health department, or doctor; must have two proofs of residency with current street address (utility bills, driver's license, property deed, rent receipt, voter registration card, etc.).

If your child has a Social Security number, please provide that information for the school records.

Children may be registered in the office during regular school hours after May 23, but will not have the opportunity to meet the teachers and see the classrooms until school starts if they are unable to register during open house.

out if some people were ever your friends," Hartshorn said.

"I'm at wit's end," she added. "I don't know where to turn."

The government is willing to lend a helping hand but it's the Bay-Waveland rental market that is apparently uncooperative. Hartshorn had applied for, and been granted approval for Section 8 housing. That means the government will pay up to $450 a month in rent.

However, Hartshorn's son is 17 and her daughter 13. Because of the ages of her children still living at home, the government requires her to rent a three-bedroom residence.

Therein lies the quandary, Hartshorn said, because she is unable to find three-bedroom accommodations in the $450 range permitted by the government.

"All of the three-bedroom (residences) are $600 to $700 a month," said Hartshorn, whose only source of income is $120 a month in welfare, which by her own admission, "doesn't go too far."

"I need help in finding a place to live," she said. "I've been staying with one person after another."

Hartshorn originally filed for Section 8 assistance in March. She received an extension in May, and said she should receive another extension in June if suitable accommodations have not yet been found. Hartshorn and her daughter have been living with a social worker. Although there is enough of room for Hartshorn and her family, she said she was told-Section 8 will not approve that arrangement because there is no separate entrance to the residence.

Hartshorn's health is as uncertain as her future. She is a diabetic who also suffers from high blood pressure. Several years ago, Hartshorn had a pacemaker installed. She also suffers from arthritis and bruxitis in her joints.

Her wrists are in casts and will remain so until her summer

Beach

"I spent in excess of $150,000 to live here (on Beach Boulevard)," he said. "My dream is being taken away by a parking lot."

Russell Voorhies said the county "may have forced the issue, but I think we could have discussed it (at the May 22 meeting) and a special meeting could have been called after that."

The issue was not on the original agenda but surfaced during Mason's Mayor's Report. Earlier in the meeting, Voorhies addressed the board and asked for the matter to be tabled.

"We were disregarded," he said. "It was a highly inappropriate discussion at this meeting."

"Apparently, three Aldermen decided to push the issue through."

Hampton said he believes he is not "impeding the progress of Waveland."

He said he would support the proposal if he thought visitors would be spending money in the Waveland area.

"But they're not," he said. Hampton said he conducted an informal survey over three weekends and found that "82 percent" of the cars parked along Beach Boulevard had Louisiana license plates.

"Are we going to spend this amount of money and subject our citizens to disgruntlement and dissension to satisfy Louisiana people?" he asked.

"These people will leave their litter and garbage on the beach," Hampton said. "(The residents) have to clean it up. The county won't clean it up. They don't have the manpower. We do it ourselves."

Opponents to the county plan have presented two alternatives. The first is to build smaller bays along the approximate five miles of Waveland beachfront.

Another alternative, they suggest, is to construct a third lane along Beach Boulevard, which, officials have said, is cost prohibitive.

"We know (the parking lot) is going to happen," Hampton said. "We just want to know how it will happen and how palatable (the county) will make it for us."

"We don't want our property devalued."

Voorhies said "98 percent" of the people he has talked to in the nearby neighborhoods "favor not having anything on our beaches."

"People on the (south side) of the railroad tracks want to keep the beach as is," he said. "They will pick up after themselves."

"I don't think anything needs to be built," Voorhies added. "It will lead to other structures, other businesses and other private enterprises going on a public beach."

"I would like to see the beach remain pristine."

He said he is not "against

progress. That's not the issue." "But why put anything out there that is going to destroy my view?" he asked. "The beach area is not the place for (growth)."

"Hwy. 90 and Highway 603 is the development corridor. That's where growth should take place."

Still to be resolved is the final configuration of the parking lot. The proposal calls for the lot to be parallel to Beach Boulevard, which is similar with Waveland's 1983 master plan for the Waveland Pier.

Fleuriet said he would like to see the lot constructed perpendicular to Beach Boulevard. Engineer William Mitchell is studying the matter and scheduled to report his findings to the board.

Fleuriet said the uncertainty of Mitchell's report is the reason he wanted to table the resolution. Longo countered that "with the money the county is allocating, (Fleuriet's proposal) may still be accomplished."

Fleuriet said Thursday the meeting, scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Monday, will still be held. He said the first part of the meeting will revolve around discussion of a proposed RV parking lot in Waveland.

The second half of the meeting was originally scheduled to be dedicated to the parking lot issue. He said that will still be held if citizens are willing to discuss it further.

Alderman Al Kingston made the motion to endorse the county proposal, and it was seconded by Longo.

sugar, spaghetti, hand soap and laundry and dish detergent. A bag containing bread, rolls and doughnuts is also packed.

The bakery products are donated by local bakeries and are kept in used, donated freezers.

Since the pantry opened, 8,377 families, approximately 25,073 people, have received emergency help.

Food Pantry completes ten years of service

In early 1986 a group of members from area churches met and made plans to open a community food pantry. The purpose was to provide food to families facing an emergency such as the loss of a job or illness.

The Hancock County Food Pantry was opened in May 1986. A state charter was obtained and free quarters were made available by Civil Defense in their office on Old Spanish Trail. The Episcopal Church made the initial donation.

The pantry is now located in the old jail where Civil Defense has moved.

The pantry is staffed and operated entirely by volunteers from local churches. Each church has a director of volunteers. Approximately 60 volunteers are associated with the pantry.

The pantry is funded primarily by church members, clubs, organizations and other individuals who are friends of the pantry.

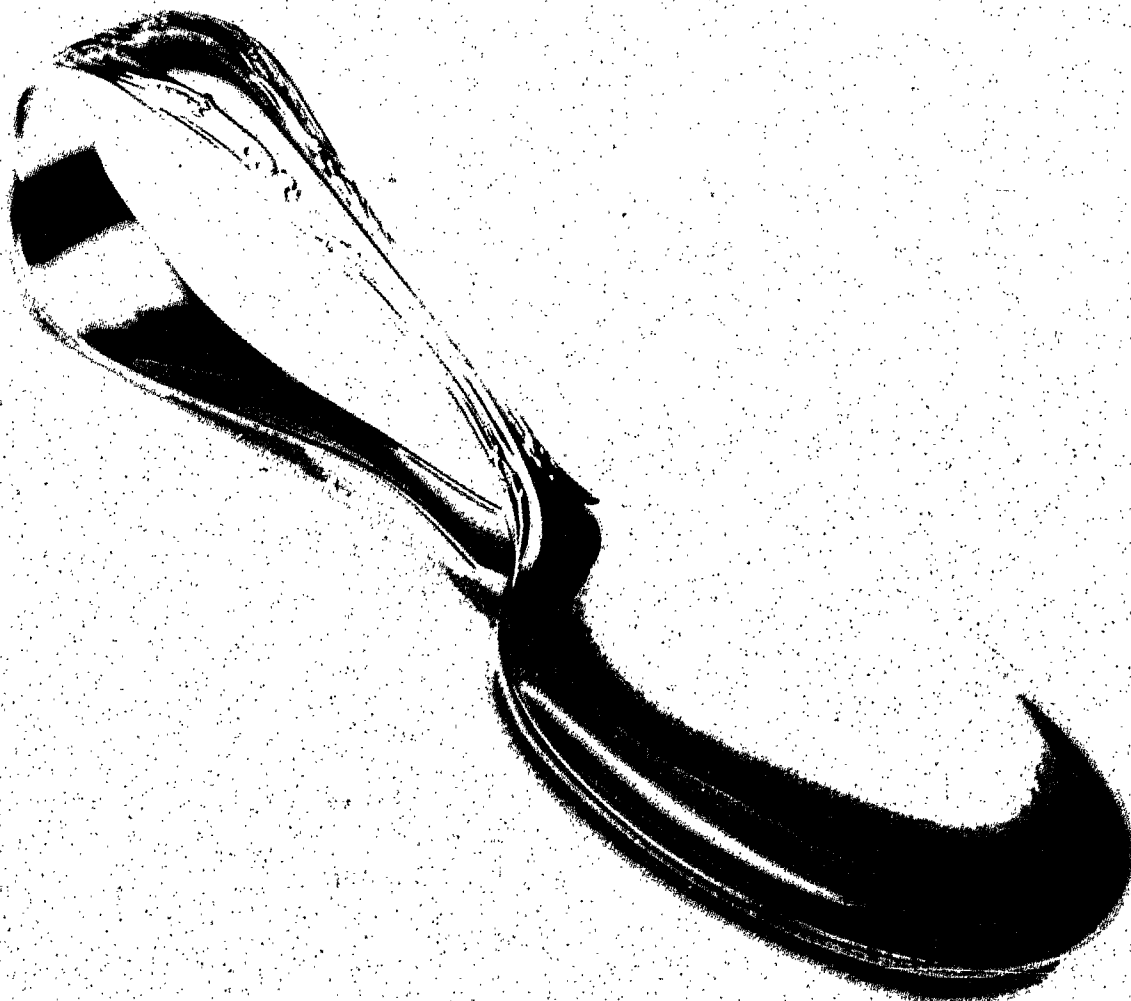

In the vestibule of each church is a collection box for the deposit of non-perishable foods. Each week the food is delivered to the pantry, along with any cash donations.

The only expenses are the phone bill and the purchase of food to supplement the donated food items.

Each applicant for food is required to bring a referral form from the welfare department, a church or other charitable organization. They are interviewed by a volunteer and a four- to six-day supply is bagged, according to the size of the family.

The bags are packed using a standard list. The bags contain peanut butter and jelly, canned meats, vegetables and fruit, pork and beans, tomatoes, tomato sauce, soup, rice, beans, macaroni and cheese, flour,

OUR BABIES ARE BORN WITH A SILVER SPOON
AT NORTHSORE REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER

Life's advantages begin early for our babies. As soon as they are born, our babies receive a silver spoon* as a gift.

This is merely one of many sterling opportunities at NorthShore Regional Medical Center. Expectant parents are given a beeper to use before delivery, and are encouraged to take advantage of free classes, programs and tours. Also, our moms-to-be can use the individualized Pregnagym™ program at The Health Center at NorthShore Regional for no extra charge.

Baby goes home in style with an infant car seat and baby monitor. Plus, our babies are eligible for the Born Winner prize drawing where a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond, dedicated to the child's education, is given away each month.

And, don't forget the best reason to prerogister—mothers in labor are escorted directly to their deluxe labor/delivery/recovery room. Since all paperwork has been completed there's no need to stop at the admit desk.

To qualify, mothers-to-be must be pre-registered with The Women's Center at NorthShore Regional and a patient of an obstetrician on the hospital's medical staff. To learn more about prerogisteration, call The Women's Center today. (504) 646-5666.

Graduation begins new phase of life

By Anna Minor
MSU Ag Communications
As high school seniors slip on their caps and gowns to accept their diplomas, many are left wondering what they are supposed to do since they have reached this milestone.
Dr. Ann Jarratt, 4-H youth development specialist at Mississippi State University, said graduating from high school represents not only achievement but the opening of new doors in a young person's life.
"High school provides the stepping stones for meeting a student's ultimate career goals," Jarratt said. "It has given a young person the general education necessary before going on to specialized training."

While some students already know their career goals, most young people leave high school a little unsure of what they want out of life. The specialist recommended that students without clear goals in mind investigate several different areas of interest until they find the one for them.
"Finding your place in life is a process," Jarratt said.
"Young people should expose themselves to as many different career areas as possible by doing volunteer work, talking to people in the field or taking different classes."

Regardless of the young person's interest area, Jarratt said, additional education and training after high school is necessary.
"Seniors should determine of short-term benefits will help meet long-range goals," Jarratt said. "Research shows a college graduate can expect to earn almost twice as much in a lifetime as someone with only a high school diploma."
The specialist encouraged seniors to keep an open mind and look for opportunities to find their career path.

Parents also play an important role in helping their children determine their goals by not trying to impose their own ambitions on their children.
"Parents need to recognize that everyone's personal goals are different," Jarratt said. "Parents need to offer their support and encouragement, even if they don't agree with their child's decisions."
The specialist said a young person's goals probably will change several times, and parents should try to see these changes as an important part of the learning process.
"Young people will make mistakes, but no matter what has happened in the past, their future is absolutely clean," Jarratt said.

5th Circuit judges visit UM Law School

Students at the University of Mississippi School of Law had the opportunity to meet several significant members of the legal profession when the New Orleans-based U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit convened at the Lamar Law Center. Judge Thomas M. Reavley, right, and Chief Judge Henry A. Flood insurance coverage urged for Hancock residents

Federal and state officials remind residents of three south Mississippi counties that suffered severe flooding earlier this month of the need to maintain flood insurance on their homes and businesses.

Michael J. Polny, federal coordinating officer for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), and Jim Maher, state coordinating officer for the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency (MEMA), said flood insurance is available through any licensed agent in the state.

All communities and areas of the three counties hit by recent flooding — Harrison, Hancock and Pearl River — which were declared a major disaster area by President Clinton May 12, are eligible for coverage.

In fact, the three represent about one-third of all the existing flood insurance policies in Mississippi's 82 counties, with a current total of 11,327 valid policies outstanding.

"Ninety percent of the state is eligible for flood insurance," Polny said, but cautioned that "eligibility alone is not enough. Residents and business owners must purchase flood insurance policies themselves in order to withstand the possibility of devastating losses in future flooding."

Maher added that the average annual flood insurance cost of about $300 "can provide a resident protection from a potentially heavy financial drain when storms and floods return, as they most certainly will."

Mississippi residents and businesses currently have purchased $961 million in existing flood insurance coverage.

The number of policies by county include Hancock — 3,374 policies totaling $424,304,000; Harrison — 7,638 totaling $703,258,000; and Pearl River — 315 totaling $15,399,000.

In order to be eligible for flood insurance coverage, counties and communities must formally participate in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). Individual residents or business owners cannot obtain coverage under the program unless there is county and community participation.
Since the beginning of centralized record maintenance in 1978 — not including current disaster figures, which are not yet available — a total of 3,168 flood insurance claims have been approved in Harrison, Hancock and Pearl River counties with a total payout of $16,357,148.

By county and community they are as follows:

Harrison — Biloxi, 396 claims totaling $1,160,928; Gulfport, 564 for $2,803,124; Long Beach, 240 for $1,800,091; Pass Christian, 252 for $876,820; and unincorporated

Harrison County, 578 for $4,456,653.

Hancock — Bay St. Louis, 115 for $331,464; Waveland, 101 for $164,898; and unincorporated Hancock County, 750 for $2,288,591.

Pearl River — Picayune, 50 for $440,333; and unincorporated Pearl River, 112 for $2,034,246.

Girl Scouts activities

Special to the Echo
Girl Scouts Brownie Troop 573 has had a full year of exciting and worthwhile events.

The year got started with a community service event participating in the Coast cleanup. In October the troop took a fall hiking trip to Buccaneer State Park Nature Trail.

This earned the girls two Try-Its Outdoor Adventure and Outdoor Fun. Later that month, the Junior Troop hosted a Brownie Dabbler Badge meeting.

In earning the craft Try-It Arts to Wear and the Badge Arts and Craft, the girls hand-stenciled the Girl Scouts Ways emblem as their Troop T-shirt. In February all 14 girls presented a very well performed ceremony of the Girl Scouts Ways, Honor and Pledge.

They also presented the traditional 'Brownie Story,' and will do an encore performance at the St. Clare Seafood Festival Sunday, May 21 at 12:30 p.m. Also in February, the Troop marched in the Krewe of Kids Parade.

In April some of the girls attended an Easter egg hunt, sponsored by OLA. A big event was "Let's Go West," weekend at Camp Ita Kana in Wiggins April 21-23.

There was an annual banquet to present the girls with end-of-the-year Try-Its and Badges, followed by a sleepover party at a local resort.

The girls earned the funds to pay for this event by selling 840 boxes of cookies last January.

Thanks to Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council, Bay-Wave District members and all parents for their help and support. Most of all, thanks to the girls for being such great Brownie Scouts.

Members of the Girl Scout Brownie Troop #573 included Lyndsy Bourdeau, Patricia Bureson, Sandra Bourgeois, Collette Cook, Kelly Johnston, Emily Liner, Tiffany Longo, Kayla Macklin, Lisa Necaise, Lisa Reboul, Elysha Thompson, Kahla Thurman, Sadie Thurman, and Marissa Turcotte.

Breath, Smith named bank branch managers

Hancock Bank Vice President and Western Division Manager L. Clinton Necaise announces the following personnel changes in his division:

Assistant Vice President Charles "Chuck" Breath has been named manager of the bank's Pass Christian office. He joined the bank in 1975 and transfers to Pass Christian after serving as manager of the bank's Stennis Space Center office and advisor to the Waveland office for the past ten years.

A graduate of the University of Mississippi and the Mississippi School of Banking, Breath is an active member of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and is past commodore of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. He currently serves on the board of directors of the Hancock County American Cancer Society.

Branch Officer Eva Smith has been named manager of the bank's Stennis Space Center office. Beginning work with the bank's Proof Department in 1961, she transferred to Stennis as one of just five women working at the facility when it started operations in 1963.

Smith has completed numerous American Institute of Banking courses, serves as volunteer for the Mississippi Special Olympics at Stennis, and is a member of the "Partners For Stennis" committee. She also serves on the finance committee at St. Matthew Catholic Church.

Hancock Bank is the largest financial institution in South Mississippi with $2.1 billion in assets and 40 full service banking offices. Hancock is listed by Veribanc, Inc. as one of the strongest, safest banks in the United States.

Marine officers elected

The Marine Corps League, Gulf Coast Detachment installed newly elected officers for the year 1995-96 at its last meeting. Officers are Pete Manieri, commandant; Harold Hirsch, senior vice commandant; Len Drozal, junior vice commandant; Charles Zachariah, paymaster; Frank Cannon, adjutant; Spike Hennessey, sergeant-at-arms; and Mack Taylor, chaplain.

The next meeting will be June 14, 7 p.m. at the Good Life Apartment, 115 South Beach, Bay St. Louis. All Marines, active, former and retired are welcome.

American Legion No. 77 observes Memorial Day

Bourgeois-Stieffell-Ray Post 77, The American Legion, Waveland, will observe Memorial Day with ceremonies at the post home on Coleman Avenue in Waveland at 11 a.m. Monday, May 29.

Features speaker will be Lt. Col. Gary Lee of the U.S. Air Force, Keesler Air Force Base.

Refreshments will be served following the ceremonies, and the public is invited to attend.

Ministers and Wives Assn. plan Church Softball League

The fifth annual Youth Church Softball League is in the final stages of planning. The Ministers and Wives Association invites churches along the Coast to include a team in this league.

The games will be played at Commagere Park on Booker Street in Bay St. Louis for ages 8-13.

Interested individuals should contact Louis Dunklin, 467-3361, Diane Morris, 467-2443, Gisele Bradley, 467-3639.

The league is scheduled to start on Saturday, July 8 at 6 p.m.

Financial whiz kids win honor

Earning an imaginary $18,888 in just 10 weeks cinched a top spot for a Hancock County team in the Mississippi Stock Market Game. A St. Stanislaus team was one of 12 from across the state honored at the Stock Market Game awards dinner in Jackson.

Winning second place in the spring competition was Team 15174, made up of Michael Mancuso, Robbie Morrison, Mark Modenbach, Ty McMichael and Joey Niolet. Mike Gemelli served as teacher-sponsor.

The game is sponsored by the American Enterprise Center of the Mississippi Economic Council, the Jackson-based investment firm of Legg Mason and the Clarion-Ledger. This year more than 900 teams — made up of some 4,500 students — took part in the statewide game.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

DAV and Auxiliary 50

Disabled American Veterans Chapter 50 and its auxiliary, Bay St. Louis, held installation of officers May 9 for the year 1995-96. Leroy Necaise is post commander and Aloise Shiyou is auxiliary commander.

The first meeting of the new year will be Tuesday, June 13 at 7 p.m. at the post home on Union Street in Bay St. Louis. All members are asked to attend, so plans can be made for the year.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The monthly sing-along for the residents of Hotel Reed Nursing Center May 4 was sponsored by Unit 139. Roslyn Weathers led the singing, and Elaine Roberts helped serve refreshments.

On Thursday, May 11, the regular meeting of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 was held at the post home.

First vice-president Jeanette Ladner opened the meeting; color-bearers Hazel Wohlschlegel and Charlotte Sellers advanced the colors; chaplain Carolyn Bermond read the opening prayers, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Secretary Patricia Garcia read the roll of officers, followed with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting. Treasurer Bobby Tomlinson gave a report on the financial status of the unit.

All members gathered around the Charter in memory of deceased member Oris Planchard. Prayers were spoken by V. P. Ladner and Bermond.

The nominating committees reported on candidates for the new slate of officers for 1995-96.

President, Janelle Necaise; first vice-president, Mattie North; second vice president, Shirley Cox; and secretary, Jeanette Ladner.

Treasurer, Janet Aime; historian, Beatrice Ladner; chaplain, Carolyn Bermond; color-bearers, Hazel Wohlschlegel and Charlotte Sellers; sergeant-at-arms, Roslyn Weathers and Betty LaFontaine; executive committee, Reta Cardin, Jackie Bufkin, Marion Foucha and Judy Gavney.

At the June meeting there will be nominees from the floor accepted.

Girls State chairman Anna Gayaut reported she has five girls to date who expressed willingness to attend Girls' State.

Chairman Phillis Moran spoke on the women in military service for America Memorial and asked for members to submit names of those who served during the various services. So far the unit has endorsed 24 ladies and will accept more.

Membership chairman Jeanette Ladner said the club reached 100% goal.

Blood Bank chairman Mattie North thanked members who helped make the last drive a great success.

Unit 139 received letters of thanks from the recent scholarship winners.

Poppy chairman Susan Piazza reported on the Poppy Drive and also thanked the junior and senior members for their help.

The meeting closed with the usual procedure.

Library's children's story hour closes season

"I Know My ABC" will be the theme for the season's last children's story hour at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis Wednesday, May 24 at 10:30 a.m.

V is for Vanishing and Alpha Bugs are books to be featured. Children will make an umbrella craft, see a fingerplay and a movie. Refreshments will be served.

"Lazy Days" will be theme at the children's story hour at the Waveland Library Thursday, May 25 at 10:30 a.m.

Sam and the Firefly, Fast Draw Freddie and The Trip are books to be featured. Children will receive a color sheet, make sidewalk art and receive refreshments.

Weekly story hours are held September through May. Programs last approximately one hour.

Programs and activities are designed for pre-school age children 3-5 years old who are not part of a nursery or pre-school group.

For individual branch story hour information, contact Winnie Vasques, City-County Public Library, 467-5282; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; Evelyn Necaise, Waveland Library, 467-9240.

Kiln VFW Auxiliary Post 6285

The Kiln Auxiliary to VFW Post 6285 met Tuesday, May 16. The meeting was opened by president Estelle Depreo with 11 members in attendance.

The roll of officers was called, and chaplain Virginia Olsen read the opening prayer. Acting secretary Aline Hoda read the minutes, and Bessie Necaise gave the treasurer's report. Various official communications and reports were read by the president.

Plans were made and accepted for the month of May and June. May 21 at 1 p.m. the elected officers for 1995-96 VFW and Auxiliary will hold a joint installation at the post home. The installing officers are William R. Easterling, past state quartermaster, and Mrs. Dagmar Easterling of Starkville. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Members attending the state convention June 23-25 in Jackson are Estelle Depreo, Virginia Olsen, Mildred Lee and DeDe Perkins. A donation of $25 was made to National Home and $48 to Cancer Aid and Research.

The auxiliary received a number of certificates from the District 1 convention held in Biloxi and a plaque for being over 100% in membership.

The meeting adjourned with the closing prayer by the chaplain. The next meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. June 20 at the post home.

Gulf Coast Stamp Club

The Gulf Coast Stamp Club will meet Saturday, June 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall (second floor) on East Water Street, Biloxi (south of the main post office).

Call 863-7770 or 435-1638 for information.

Hancock High designates Martin ambassador

USM camps

Football

Applications are now being accepted for the University of Southern Mississippi Football Camp for boys ages 8-18, July 9-11.

Cost is $150, which includes tuition, housing, meals, limited accident insurance, a camp T-shirt and a graduation certificate. Day-campers fees are $100, which includes all but housing and morning and evening meals. Group rates are available for five to nine campers.

Football coaching staff members and athletic trainers for USM serve as instructors.

Because of limited space, pre-registration by June 26 is recommended.

For information, call (601) 266-4186 or (601) 266-4567.

Girls Basketball

Applications are now being accepted for the University of Southern Mississippi basketball camps for girls this summer.

The "Lil' Lady Eagle Basketball Day Camp" for girls in grades 1-6 will be offered June 12-16. Cost is $100, which includes tuition, limited accident insurance and awards. Pre-registration ends June 5.

The "Kay James Basketball Camp" for girls in grades 7-12 will be offered June 18-21. Cost is $195 and that includes tuition, meals, housing, limited accident insurance and awards. Pre-registration ends June 7.

For information on either camp call (601) 266-4186.

Soccer

Applications are now being accepted for the University of Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagle Soccer Camp set June 11-15 and June 17-21.

The camp will offer boys and girls ages 9-18 intensive soccer instruction to help them develop an appreciation and love of the game.

The camp will be directed by Stephen Parker, a four-year starter at Baylor University, and former coach for their men's team in Indiana University women's team. He has worked with both the men's and women's soccer programs at USM.

Jaime Orejan, the head coach of the USM men's and women's teams, will serve as camp administrator and will be assisted by male and female players of USM's soccer program.

Fees are $195 for resident campers, which includes meals and housing; and $165 for day campers, which includes lunch each day. Both resident and day campers fees include limited accident insurance, recreational facilities, a soccer ball, a Golden Eagle Soccer Camp T-shirt and a group photograph.

Enrollment is limited, so early application is suggested. There is a late fee of $15 if the registration is postmarked after May 19. For information call (601) 266-4186.

Boys Basketball

Applications are now being accepted for the University of Southern Mississippi's All-American Basketball Camp for boys in grades 1-9, set for June 26-29.

Each camper will compete in his own age group, getting individual instruction from an experienced instructional coaching staff.

Boys in grades 1-4 can participate in advanced day camp from 8 a.m.-9 p.m. or be resident campers. Cost for day camp for older children is $145 and includes lunch and supper. Cost for resident campers is $175 and includes meals and housing.

All fees include limited accident insurance, awards, recreational facilities and a camp T-shirt. For information, call (601) 266-4186.

Equestrian Camp

Applications are now being accepted for three University of Southern Mississippi Equestrian Day Camps to be offered from 8-11 a.m. July 10-14, July 17-21 and July 24-28.

The camps are designed for children 8-15 to learn about grooming, saddling and feeding, as well as barn maintenance and western horsemanship. Each camper will have a minimum of one hour of horseback riding each day. Other recreational activities include miniature golf and boating. Registration fee is $95, which covers all activities.

Enrollment is limited to 30 campers each week, so pre-registration is suggested.

For information, call (601) 266-4186.

Rocks finish seventh in state Moran breaks high jump record

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus track team finished seventh in the state track meet held at Hughes Field in Jackson on May 13.

The Rocks received a boost from state champion Vince Moran in the high jump with his first place finish and a height of 7'0".

That height tied a state record and made Vince Moran the state champion in Class 4A for a second time. Over his four years as a varsity runner for the Rocks, Moran has been the state high jump champion twice and finished state runner-up twice. Moran also competed in the 110m high hurdles where he finished seventh.

Clay Williams also competed in the high jump and placed second to Moran with a jump of 6'6".

Matt Tusa and Scott Black each finished seventh and eighth, respectively, in the 3200m and 1600m runs at the state finals.

Hartwell selected for Governor's School

Brooke Hartwell, a sophomore at Coast Episcopal High School, has been selected to participate in the 1995 session of the Mississippi Governor's School. The Governor's School is a residential honors program established in 1981 at Mississippi University for Women.

The school is designed to provide academic, creative and leadership experiences for a limited number of rising high school juniors and seniors who have demonstrated exceptional ability and achievement in their studies and who show high intellectual, creative and leadership potential.

Hartwell is an alpha honor roll student at Coast Episcopal, where she has been treasurer of her class for her freshman and sophomore years and has been chosen Pepsi Student of the Month for the past two years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hartwell of Pass Christian.

Save time & money with Coast Windshield Repair

Are you tired of staring through a cracked or "dinged-up" windshield because you fear the cost of having it replaced? Well, fear no more! Call Joe Kersanac, better known as the windshield doctor, at Coast Windshield Repair.

Established in 1988, Kersanac has performed over 5,000 repairs on the Gulf Coast with his mobile service.

With the mobile service, there is absolutely no inconvenience to the customer. You need not be late for work or have to arrange for a ride while waiting for your windshield to be repaired. Kersanac will come to your home or your office and make the repairs on the spot.

The prompt, quality service is available seven days a week. Services offered include the repair of any windshield damage, including dings or cracks up to 24 inches in size. Coast Windshield Repair can also help in the removal of scratches in windshields.

Kersanac said in most cases, your insurance company will pay for windshield repairs, so there is no out of pocket expense, and there is no charge if you are not completely satisfied with the repairs. All work comes with a written guarantee that the cracks will not spread or discolor.

Don't stare at that crack or ding any longer. Call Joe Kersanac at 467-5136 or 1-800-748-8540 for a free estimate.

State Games set tryouts for soccer and baseball

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The State Games of Mississippi set for June 24-25 in Meridian has set tryout dates and sites for soccer and baseball.

The soccer tryouts will be held at three locations in the state. The North District will be held at the Starkville Soccer Fields, the South District will be held at the Jackson County Soccer Complex, and the Central District will be held at Traceway Park in Clinton. The dates for the tryout competitions will be June 3-4 at the above locations. The divisions for the soccer tournaments are U8 boys and girls, U10 boys and girls, U12 boys and girls, U14 boys, and U16 boys.

U8 and U10 teams consist of MYSA Division 3 league players and U12 through U16 consist of MYSA Division 2 and 3 players. A limit of five Division 1 players are allowed per team. The teams can be all-star format as long as they meet the above criteria.

The top two teams from each division along with the two host teams from Meridian will advance to the State Games.

The baseball tryouts have been set for June 17 at four locations around the state.

High School juniors and seniors graduating in 1996 and 1997 will have an opportunity to display their skills in front of a selection committee made up of high school coaches from around the state. At each location, the coaches will select 20 players who will represent their district in a double elimination tournament at the State Games held on June 23-25.

The North Districts 1 and 2 will hold tryouts at the New Albany Sportsplex, the North Central Districts 3 and 4 will hold their tryouts at Grenada High School, the South Central Districts 5 and 6 will be held at John Moss Field in Meridian, and the South Districts 7 and 8 will be held at Picayune High School Field.

For more information on the baseball tryouts or soccer tryouts please call 1-800-482-0205.

Safe Boating Week

The Department of Marine Resources (DMR) joins the Coast Guard and other agencies in promoting National Safe Boating Week May 20-26.

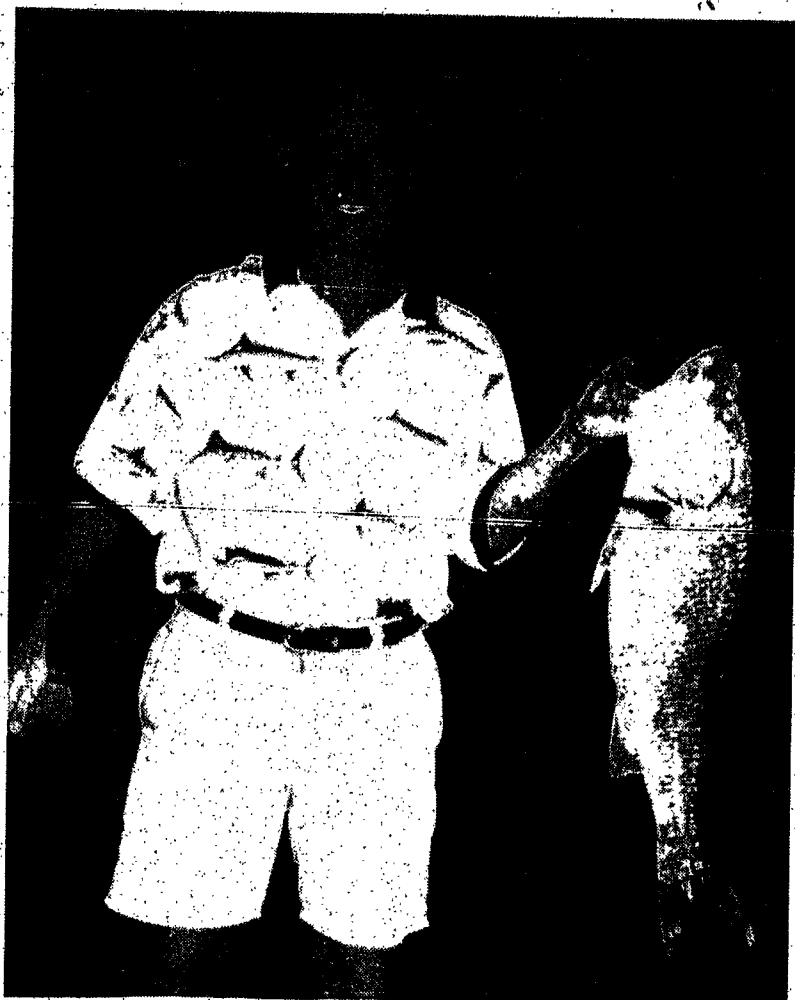

"We urge all boaters to be extremely cautious at all times," said DMR executive director Glade Woods, "but Safe Boating Week gives us a special opportunity to stress this issue."

A special concern at this time is the large amount of debris washed into waterways by recent floods. Recreational boaters, jet skiers and water skiers are advised that previously hazard-free waters may now have more debris, including large items such as appliances, patio furniture and automobiles.

"If you locate a hazardous object, please mark it as a warning to others using the waterway," Woods said.

During its 1995 session, the Mississippi Legislature transferred the duties of the Boat and Water Safety Commission related to marine waters to the Commission on Marine Resources, effective July 1.

The Commission on Marine Resources and DMR are currently formulating plans to assume the jurisdiction of boat and water safety in marine waters.

Big red

Chuck Breath IV shows off his prize-winning redfish during last year's Nereids Fishing Tournament. The Krewe of Nereids tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 27-28. Anyone may participate. Fresh water categories are bass and bream; saltwater categories are speckled trout, redfish, flounder, cobia, red snapper and Spanish mackerel. Entry fee is $30 per person and includes a crawfish boil. Entry forms may be picked up at Daddy O's or Lil' Ray's.

When looking for bass, don't try to fish the entire lake

Bassin' with the pros

"The lake may contain more than 100,000 acres and stretch 40 or 50 miles from end to end, but I'll probably only fish one or two tributary creeks."

That's the technique former world bass fishing champion Guido Hibdon uses when he's competing in national bass tournaments, and it's a technique anyone can use to find bass on strange water in short time.

"I study a good lake map and pick one area of the lake just two to three miles long and concentrate there," explains Hibdon, a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff. "I don't have time to fish the entire lake so I don't even try."

Hibdon's area must meet certain requirements, regardless of the time of year. The primary requirement is that it have two to four tributary creeks, because if he locates bass in one he wants to be able to duplicate the conditions nearby.

The area I choose also has to have a lot of cover and structure available," continues Hibdon. "I'll look for vegetation, boat docks, deep channels, points, flats, or standing timber. These are all places bass can and will utilize, and I'll fish them all, but if they're close to each other I won't have to spend all my time running from place to place."

The Johnson pro also looks for subtle things his competition might miss. These include small cuts and channels hardly wide enough for his boat, or secondary points within a cove or tributary that have deep water nearby.

Hibdon is also famous for using light line and small lures, a tactic shunned by most other anglers in big tournaments.

"Small lures always bring more strikes than larger ones," Hibdon notes. "That means I will have more chances to boat bass than the other fishermen. I will probably lose more fish because of the light line, but I'll also land more, simply because I do have more opportunities."

During a recent national tournament on Alabama's Wheeler Lake, a lake well-known for producing heavy largemouth and smallmouth bass, Hibdon pitched a tiny 3/8 ounce jug beside a piling and hooked a six-pound, 11-ounce smallmouth, the heaviest of his career.

Four cats later to the same dock piling he hooked but lost an even larger smallmouth. That lost fish was probably worth more than $4,000 in possible prize money.

"That's fishing," laughs Hibdon. "At least I had the chance to catch that second smallmouth. Fishing conditions were difficult, and a lot of anglers didn't get any strikes at all, and I probably wouldn't have either, if I hadn't been using light tackle."

USM sponsors softball tournament

The University of Southern Mississippi and the Hattiesburg Coca-Cola Bottling Co. are teaming up against for women's and men's softball tournaments May 26-28.

About 42 teams are expected to participate from throughout Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida and the Memphis area. Team members and fans traveling to Hattiesburg will receive discounted rates at the Howard Johnson Hotel, a co-sponsor of the tournaments.

The 10th annual men's tournament will be divided into four categories determined by ability. This is the second year for the women's tournament. Both are double elimination.

Carey holds commencement

William Carey College awarded 320 degrees at its spring commencement May 13.

Featured speaker was Duane McCallister, president and publisher of The Clarion Ledger in Jackson. An honorary degree was conferred upon civic, business and religious leader Ollie Thomas.

President James Edwards conferred the degrees in a ceremony on the front lawn of the college's main campus in Hattiesburg. It was the first time in several decades that graduation ceremonies were held outdoors, an event occasioned by the increase in enrollment in recent years.

McCallister, in addition to his position at The Clarion Ledger, is regional vice-president of the Gannett Gulf Coast Newspaper Group of newspapers in Monroe, La., as well as Hattiesburg and Jackson.

After completion of undergraduate studies at Marshall University in his home state of West Virginia, McCallister completed a graduate degree in business at University of Richmond in Virginia.

His extensive involvement in community affairs includes membership on the boards of Mississippi Press Association, Metro Jackson Chamber of Commerce, Mississippi Symphony, Metro YMCA and Arts Alliance. He is 1995 chairman of Capital City United Way Campaign.

Thomas and her husband, the late John D. Thomas, owned nine Gibson's stores. She continues as president of Gibson Products Company of Hattiesburg, Inc., which includes real estate development.

Her 25-year involvement with the American Cancer Society includes a term as chairman of the board for the Mississippi
Division of that organization.

She is also a member of the Hattiesburg Area Development
Partnership and Retirement Connectors, a group working to establish Hattiesburg as a retirement community.

Her special interest area in her church has been young people. Four years of service on the William Carey College Board of Trustees is one of many examples of service to the college.

Commencement activities began with a reception hosted by President and Mrs.
Edwards.

Travel agencies work for you

Working with a reputable travel agency brings a world of destinations and services to your doorstep. For you, "the traveler," working with a travel agent provides you with professionalism, ease of planning and quality services. These benefits mean you can concentrate on your real interests and that is the adventure and enjoyment of travel!

Beware of travel scams that are working in the travel market today.

Don't be taken by solicitations . . . postcards, letters or phone calls claiming you've won a free trip, or offering discounts on hotels, airfares, etc. These offers usually don't disclose the hidden fees involved, for example, deposits, surcharges, excessive handling fees or taxes.

Some travel scams require you to purchase a product to get a trip that's "free." You'll end up paying for the "free" trip by paying more for the "product" you purchase.

Look out for travel offers which ask you to redeem vouchers or certificates from out-of-state companies. The hotels are often budget rooms and very uncomfortable. Their offers are usually on a space-available basis. Most often the dates you request are not available.

Always check the reputation of any travel service you use, especially travel clubs offering discounts on their services in exchange for an annual fee. Contact your state or local Better Business Bureau.

Request copies of a travel club's or agent's brochures before purchasing your tour or cruise. Find out about cancellation policies, and never sign contracts that have blank or incomplete spaces.

Never give your credit card number or checking account information to a club or company with which you are unfamiliar.

Don't feel pressured by requests for an immediate decision or a statement that the offer is only good "if you act now." One exception to that rule is when you are dealing with your local travel agent, they may tell you that a special ticket must be purchased within 24 hours to guarantee a certain price. The airlines make those rules and stand by them, so your local agent can only guarantee the ticket if it is purchased within the 24-hour period set up by the airlines.

Research cut-rate offers, especially when dealing with travel consolidators who might not be able to provide your tickets until close to your departure date.

And last but not least, you can protect yourself by using your credit card to purchase travel services. If you don't get what you paid for, contact the credit card issuer and you might be able to get the charges reversed. Be aware that you have 60 days to dispute a charge.

One of the best cases for using a credit card to charge airline tickets was when Eastern Airlines went bankrupt. The passengers who paid by credit card got their money refunded first.

In some cases an agency might not take a credit card for some of the packages that they put together in-house. This is due to having to make payment to several different suppliers. In that event the agency will offer to let you charge on your card if you pay the bank charges for conversion.

Hancock High School announces valedictorian, salutatorian

David Kopf, principal of Hancock High School, announced Oreathia C. Smith has been named valedictorian, and Brian J. Cuevas has been named salutatorian of the 144-member graduating Class of 1995.

Commencement exercises will be Thursday, May 25 at 7 p.m. in the Hancock High School Hawk Stadium (weather permitting).

Smith is the daughter of Lee Anna and Lawrence Smith of Pearlinton. As the 1994-95 Mississippi Youth Representative for National Rural Electric Companies Association (NRECA) she will be traveling to Orlando, Fla., to represent Mississippi on the Annual Meeting Committee.

She presently serves as president of the Student Council and Beta Club, vice-president of the Drama Club, editor of the school newspaper, secretary of the Key Club, treasurer of the Senior Class and anchor of the Morning News.

She is also an active member of Future Business Leaders of America, Mu Alpha Theta, Improv, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and Students Against Drunk Driving.

She participated in the Mississippi EPA Youth Leadership Seminar, Coast Electric Washington Youth Tour, Women in Science and Technology delegate, Proud to be an American Essay Contest, WLOX Student Talk Show, Girls State delegate, and was named Who's Who Among American High School students.

Smith was named Miss Hancock High School and was selected senior homecoming maid. She was also selected to participate in NASA's 1994 Summer High School Apprenticeship Research Program (SHARP).

Her community involvement includes actively participating in her church youth group, Angel Tree Project, Adopt-A-Highway Litter Cleanup, Medical Explorers Group at Slidell Memorial Hospital and the March of Dimes.

During high school she received academic awards in Accelerated English I and II, State/Local Government, 9th and 10th grade Rocketdyne Most Outstanding Math and Science Student Award, Harris-Davis Service Award and Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

Smith plans to attend Millsaps College in the fall and major in chemistry.

Cuevas is the son of Elbert and Darnell Cuevas of Perkinston. During high school he received academic awards in biology, algebra I and II, chemistry, advanced chemistry, keyboarding and U.S. history.

Cuevas was a Boys State Delegate, Pepsi Student of the Month, Hancock County Exchange Club Student of the Month, first place winner in the state Spanish Competition, finalist in the Coast Electric Essay Contest, North Hancock County Business Organization's Student of the Month, a member of the Math and Science Team, Quiz Bowl Team, and All-Conference Basketball Team.

He is an active member of Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Interact, Students Against Drunk Driving, National Honor Society, Beta Club, Captain of the basketball team, treasurer of Key Club and secretary-treasurer of Mu Alpha Theta.

Cuevas serves as president of the St. Matthew Catholic Church Christian Youth Organization, altar boy and youth worker. He is also an active Knights of Columbus volunteer, Columbian Squire and received the Volunteer Worker Award for two years. He volunteers with South Mississippi Retardation Center and Special Olympics.

OLA to graduate 42

Our Lady Academy will graduate 42 seniors at a Eucharistic Liturgy May 27 at 3 p.m. in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Bishop Joseph Lawson Howze will be the chief celebrant. Sister M. Donella Hartman, principal, will assist the bishop with the diplomas.

Julie Ryan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Ryan of Pass Christian, will deliver the valedictory address. Erica Lizana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lizana of DeLisle, and Bernice Sy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bertrand Sy of Bay St. Louis, will be co-salutatorians.

During the 21st commencement exercises for OLA, the following graduates will wear blue stoles with their white caps and gowns, signifying membership in the National Honor Society: Anne Courrege, Laura Dhuy, Elizabeth Dillenkoffer, Rebecca Dockens, Hannah Erwin, Amie Geary, Amy Jones, Haidi Kerbl, Kara Kortman, Erica Lizana, Jennifer Myers, Lisa Pope, Julie Ryan, Lorian Stahl, Bernice Sy and Jennifer Trowbridge.

Graduates will participate in the parts of the liturgy: Shalon Bradley and Jennifer Frazier will present the readings; Jill Peterson and Jonna Ellis will give the Psalm response.

Prayers of the Faithful will be read by Brandi Everett, Amy Hoke, Kim Jones, Jenny Madden, Lisa Pope and Megan Prats.

The offertory gifts will be carried by Lesley Babin, Julie Ladner, Somer Rester, Michelle Roche, Jennifer Smith and Marcie Wittmann.

Following the distribution of Communion, Erica Lizana will sing "Ave Maria," accompanied on the flute by Laura Dhuy; Haidi Kerbl and Hyacinth Cappie will read a meditation, and Anne Courrege and Lorian Stahl will sing "Letting Go."

The conferring of diplomas will occur after the Celebration of the Eucharist. Members of the 1995 Senior Class of Our Lady Academy to receive diplomas are Lesley Babin, Shalon Bradley, Hyacinth Cappie, Nikki Chapman, Nicole Christenberry, Jessica Clark, Anne Courrege, Laura Dhuy, Elizabeth Dillenkoffer, Rebecca Dockens, Jonna Ellis, Hannah

Erwin, Brandi Everett, Jennifer Frazier, Amie Geary;

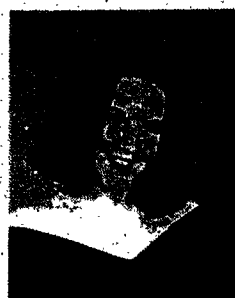

Melissa Grass, Miranda Grass, Amy Hoke, Amy Jones, Kimberly Jones, Haidi Kerbl, Kara Kortman, Julie Ladner, Erica Lizana, Jennifer Madden, Amanda McPhail, MiMi Montagnet, Jennifer Myers;

Jill Peterson, Lisa Pope, Megan Prats, Somer Rester, Michelle Roche, Julie Ryan, Kasey Ryan, Jennifer Smith, Lorian Stahl, Bernice Sy, Jennifer Trowbridge, Donna Webb, Mary West and Marcie Wittmann.

The following awards will be announced: Chamber of Commerce Award, the Principal's Cup and the Mary Patricia Schmidt Character Cup.

Following the presentation of awards, St. Joseph Academy alumnae from the classes of '25, '35, '45, '55 and '65 and the OLA graduates from '75 and '85 will be honored.

Members of the Class of 1995 will be inducted into the SJA/OLA Alumnae Association and receive academic awards at a special ceremony to be held May 16. Athletic recognition for seniors will be given at a school assembly.

OLA names valedictorian, salutatorians

Sister M. Donella Hartman, principal of Our Lady Academy, announced Julie Ryan as the valedictorian of the Class of 1995 and Erica Lizana and Bernice Sy as co-salutatorians, a first in the OLA history.

Graduation exercises will be Saturday, May 27 at 3 p.m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis.

Julie Ryan Valedictorian

Julie Ryan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Ryan of Pass Christian, as an all-A honor roll student, president of the National Honor Society, captain of the Quiz Bowl Team, and secretary of the Latin Honor Society.

Recognized as a Student of the Month for the last six years, Ryan was named a finalist and a scholar in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship Program, received the National Eagle of the Cross Award from Bishop Joseph Howze at the spring Catholic Youth Convention in Biloxi and was honored as a 1995 Hancock County Kiwanis Club Student of the Year.

Ryan holds membership in JETS (Junior Engineering Technical Society), SADD, the yearbook staff and CAC (Crescent Athletic Club) and participated in cross-country.

Ryan is a three-year member of the Math-Science Team, which placed second in Division II in Mississippi. In the individual competition in mathematics, Ryan placed in the top ten percent. Last year she was a member of the JETS Team, which placed first in their division in Mississippi and eighth in the nation.

Ryan was named an outstanding delegate at the Mississippi Model Security Council at the Mock United Nations in February and an outstanding legislator at the Mississippi Youth Legislature. She has attended the Mississippi Governor's School and the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington.

Active in OLA's Campus Ministry, Ryan is a member of the Student Ministry Team and the Senior Retreat Team. She serves as both lector and commentator at St. Paul's Church and is president of St. Paul's Catholic Youth Organization. She attended the World Youth Day with the Pope in Denver, has assisted in the Waveland Literacy Program, and has tutored students at OLA, BCE and St. Paul's Elementary.

OLA

Ryan has received numerous scholarships and plans to major in mathematics education and elementary education at Mississippi State University.

Erica Lizana
Co-salutatorian

Erica Lizana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lizana from DeLisle. An alpha honor roll student, Lizana is secretary of the National Honor Society, president of JETS, and a member of Campus Ministry, the Student Ministry Team and SADD.

Lizana was named a finalist in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship Program, honored as a finalist and a scholar in the 1995 National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students, and received the National Eagle of the Cross Award from Bishop Joseph Howze at the Catholic Youth Convention this spring.

Captain of the Math/Science Team, which placed second in Division II at the 1995 Mississippi Math/Science Tournament, Lizana also scored in the top ten percent in the individual biology competition at the tournament, as she also did the two previous years.

Lizana served as a page in the Mississippi House of Representatives. She was a member of the JETS Team, which placed first in their division in Mississippi and eighth in the nation. She was chosen to attend the Mississippi Governor's School in the summer of 1994.

Lizana has received math, biology, English and service awards, as well as a Student of the Month award last year.

A member of the Crescent Athletic Club, Lizana has played on the softball and volleyball teams for four years and the newly organized basketball team this past year.

She is a lector and a member of the choir at St. Stephen Church in DeLisle and vice-president of her parish CYO.

She is interested in majoring in medical technology at Mississippi State University.

Bernice Sy
Co-salutatorian

An alpha honor roll student, Sy is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bertrand Sy of Bay St. Louis.

Sy is editor of the yearbook, Tomorrow's Past, co-captain of the Quiz Bowl Team, secretary of the JETS and past vice-president of the Spanish Honor Society.

Honored as a Pepsi Student of the Month for the past three years, Sy is OLA's Tandy Scholarship nominee and was named the Hancock County Exchange Club student last December.

Sy is a member of SADD and the Math/Science Team, which placed second in Division II at the 1995 Mississippi Math/Science Tournament. Last year she was a member of the JETS Team, which placed first in their division in Mississippi and eighth in the nation.

A member of the National Honor Society, Sy tutors students after school and has also tutored in the Adult Literacy Program locally.

Sy also lettered in band, was named a most outstanding musician, received first and third place ribbons in science fairs, received awards in Science Olympiads and worked on the staff of the literary magazine, From Within.

A parishioner of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Sy is a member of OLA's Campus Ministry and Senior Retreat Team and plays the organ at St. Joseph Chapel on Dunbar Avenue every weekend.

Last summer Sy was a SHARP student and worked in the Summer High School Apprenticeship Research Program at NASA.

She is interested in the medical field and plans to attend Emory University in Atlanta.

Hancock student AL winner

The application submitted by Katrina Lynn Necaise for the American Legion Auxiliary National President's Scholarship was chosen as the winning entry from American Legion Auxiliary Unit 77.

Necaise is a senior at Hancock High School. She will graduate in May.

Necaise is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Necaise of Perkinston.

The scholarship is awarded to daughters and sons of veterans who served in the Armed Forces during the eligibility dates for membership in the American Legion.

Judging is based on scholarship, character, Americanism, leadership and financial need. Two scholarships will be awarded from each of the five divisions of the American Legion Auxiliary for the amounts of $2,000 and $1,500.

The Department of Mississippi will award a $500 scholarship. Necaise is also eligible to be the recipient of that award.

Pass Christian students cited

The United States Achievement Academy announced the following students have been named a United States National Award winner in Mathematics:

Nicholas Alexander, Dijazmine Anderson, Bradford Cook, Orrin Cummins, William DeArman, Sherrell Dedeaux, Brie Ishee, Elizabeth Jenkins, Billy Jones, Tiffany Jones, Mary Kendricks, Brittany Ladner, Shanell LaFontaine, Krystal Madden, Tai Nguyen, Thao Nguyen, Truong Nguyen, Vuong Nguyen, Thuy Ninh, Brian Niolet, Janneth Pigot, Mitsy Pavolini, Richard Wagner and Ryan Williams.

The award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. The Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American school students.

The students were nominated for the award because of their outstanding accomplishments in math at Pass Christian Middle School.

The students' names will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Collegiate Yearbook, which is published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and upon the standards of selection set forth by the Academy.

Merchants Bank

A message to the students ...

Member FDIC

Just as you've shown a lot of team spirit in high school, Merchants Bank has a lot of Hometown Spirit for the Mississippi Gulf Coast. We want you to be good to yourselves by continuing your education and athletic pursuits, and by developing healthy habits like saving some of your hard earned money. We realize the students of this graduating class are the future of our Gulf Coast, and by helping one another, we all prosper, not just as individuals, but as a community. During the coming years many of you may need financial advice or assistance. Our door is always open to you, and we'll do everything we can to ensure a bright financial future for all of you. Congratulations students! Come share the Hometown Spirit with us.
